Demystifying the College Application Process
By Melinda Mangham

Starting as young as 5th grade, it is not too early for parents and students to begin understanding the college application process. This is particularly true for gifted/talented and high ability students who can encounter unique concerns in the college application process due to their strengths and talents. During this session parents and students in 7th – 11th grade will learn about some logical steps to refine and identify college choices that are “right” for the student. This discussion will also cover parents’ role in the process, money issues, and tools to start the college application journey.
